

Abstract

The present invention concerns new conjugates, processes for their production as well as the use of these conjugates as antigens in immunological detection methods or for DNA diagnostics.

1. The present invention concerns new conjugates, processes for their production as well as the use of these conjugates as antigens in immunological detection methods or for DNA diagnostics.